

DROWNING VICTIMS BURIED SIDE BY SIDE IN LOCAL CEMETERY

Impressive Funeral Services Held For Last Two Victims Yesterday Morning—Many Floral Tributes From Friends—High School Flag At Half-Mast During Services—Several Hundred People Witness Services At Mt. Pleasant Cemetery Where Boys Are Buried Close To First Victim

Always fast friends in times of joy as well as in times of trial, the three Arlington junior high school boys who lost their life together while canoeing on Spy Pond last week, have been buried side-by-side in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery. The last two young victims of the tragedy which has stirred the whole community were buried yesterday morning in two graves which adjoin that of their companion, David Heinrich who was buried in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery last Sunday afternoon. The two whose funerals were held yesterday were Gino Santoliquido, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Santoliquido, 78 Harlow street and John Vogel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony W. Vogel, of 72 Thorndike street, Arlington.

During the funeral services of the two boys yesterday morning, the flag on the staff of the Arlington high school was flown at half mast and several students were allowed to attend the services. There was a profusion of floral tributes at the graves where several hundred people gathered to pay final solemn tribute to the popular high school youths.

The funeral of John Vogel was held from Hartwell's Chapel on Massachusetts avenue and a high mass of requiem was celebrated in the Immaculate Church, North Cambridge at nine o'clock. Rev. Jeremiah F. Moriarty officiated. The bearers were Edward Hart, George Igo, William Keefe, Thomas Bullock, Cyril Daviau and William Bullock, all of whom were close friends of the junior high school student. A very large congregation of mourners attended the impressive church service.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated for Gino Santoliquido in St. Agnes' Church at nine o'clock. Rev. Matthew J. Flaherty, pastor of the parish, celebrated the mass and was assisted by Rev. Donald F. Simpson and Joseph D. Murphy. The bearers were William O. Hauser, Jr., Walter Godfrey, Gilbert Harrington, Francis O'Hearn, Edward Holaway and Alfred Lane. All of these boys were close friends of young Santoliquido's brother who survives the lad. All are junior high and high school students. Rev. Father Flaherty conducted the service at the cemetery.

Arriving at Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, within a few minutes of each other the funerals of both boys were witnessed by a large crowd of friends who had gathered at the graves. Both boys were buried side by side with their companion, David Heinrich.

The funeral yesterday marked the final chapter to a tragedy which has aroused the interest and sympathy of all Arlington since a week ago yesterday when the three boys were reported missing following their fatal canoe ride.

ARLINGTON TRADE SHOW TO BENEFIT MERCHANTS AND PUBLIC IN GENERAL

Arlington is now buzzing with activity in preparation of the mammoth Trade Show, the first of its kind ever conducted by the local Chamber of Commerce. The exposition will open at Robbins Memorial town hall next Tuesday and continue through Thursday. The gala affair will be open both afternoon and evening with numerous entertainment features to please people of all ages.

Every town and city has made the trade show an integral part of their industrial and commercial life. Wisely, the Arlington Chamber of Commerce has followed suit and has called upon Walter G. Field, noted industrial show director, to stage the exposition. Trade shows provide an advertising medium of immense advantage to merchants and townspeople.

In these days of concerted effort by merchants in the large shopping centers to attract people from the outlying districts, it is essential that the merchants of this communities present a united front and by cooperative effort and enterprise seek to hold the trade within their own town. The active and vigorous participation of all merchants and manufacturers is essential if the competition of the widely advertised city stores is to be effectively

East Lexington Unit Gets 1st Dramatic Prize

The East Lexington unit of the Middlesex County Extension Service won first place in the semi-finals of the drama tournament which were held last week at the Congregational Church in Woburn. The ladies presented "Joint Owners in Spain" with Mrs. L. H. Barrett as coach. Two other units also presented plays that morning. "Tea Time" was given by the ladies of the North Woburn unit and "The Old Fashioned School" was presented by North Reading. All of these plays were well done and have served to bring about recreation in local communities. The three plays were given in the morning.

The afternoon meeting was devoted to a food demonstration by Miss M. E. Foley, state nutrition specialist, from the Massachusetts State College. Miss Foley emphasized the use of inexpensive foods prepared in palatable ways. Among the foods particularly recommended for low cost menus were milk, cheese, eggs and fish as meat substitutes and cabbage, carrots, dandelion greens, whole grain cereals including dark bread and the whole grain breakfast foods.

Miss Foley also acted as judge for the exhibit of all appointed luncheon tables. Eight entries were in this contest and four included tables where the total cost of all settings was under five dollars. The others were in the open class. The Reading unit and East Lexington unit placed first in the class above $5.00. All of the tables showed unusual skill in the arrangement of low, simple centerpieces. In many instances the colors of the dishes were carried out in the centerpieces. One particularly interesting table was exhibited by the Bedford unit. The total cost of all articles used on the table was $2.50. In remarking about the tables Miss Foley said: "Is there any excuse for anyone to sit down to an unattractive table when such a charming table can be arranged for $2.50? What we need is to give a little time and thought in order that our tables may be more attractive."

Paul W. Dempsey from the Waltham Field Station talked on "Home Gardens" and answered many questions from eager gardeners.

NOTABLE GATHERING AT PLANTING OF WASHINGTON ELM

The Jason Russell House was the scene of a notable gathering on Saturday, when in conjunction with the Arlington Historical society, the George Washington Memorial Tree given by Menotomy Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was dedicated.

Under the colors members of Girl and Boy Scout Troops led the salute to the flag. Miss Elizabeth Hills, a descendant of Jason Russell in the sixth generation and a granddaughter of George O. Russell, read "A Tree is a Psalm of Beauty" by Rt. Rev. James H. Darlington.

Franklin P. Hawkes, master of Junior High West, in his inspiring address, called to mind that it was Arbor Day and the anniversary of George Washington's first inaugural and the spot where 12 men gave their lives in the early days of the Revolution.

The Regent, Mrs. Eugene Vinal presented the elm to the Arlington Historical society. Since 1775 when Washington took command of the Continental Army under the elm tree in Cambridge, this tree has been associated with him, "and it is fitting," said Mrs. Vinal "that in this bi-centennial year of his birth that the Daughters of the American Revolution plant a tree in his honor and to his memory, and Menotomy Chapter enjoys this privilege. This location is eminently suitable as it is the home of the Arlington Historical society and is rich in historic tradition".

Judge J. P. Parmenter, president of the Historical society accepted the tree in behalf of the society, expressing his thanks and appreciation.

Among the honored guests was Mrs. Abbie Elizabeth Dupee, the great granddaughter of Jason Russell and who celebrated her 100th birthday last month.

Mrs. Dupee was accompanied by her daughters, Miss Effie Dupee and Mrs. George O. Russell and her great-granddaughter, the little two-year old Constance Adelaide, daughter of George O. Russell, Jr. who was also present.

Members of Troops 3, 4 and 8 of Girl Scouts and Troop 8 of Boy Scouts participated in the exercises.

OLD BOSSY COW NOW MEDICAL LABORATORY

It is now possible for babies suffering from rickets to obtain a cure in the milk that nourishes them, according to an announcement by H. P. Hood & Sons, who have filed with the Medical Milk Commission of Boston the findings of a report made by Dr. Arthur D. Holmes, the well-known research authority, to the effect that certain selected Hood cows are producing milk rich in vitamin D, which is the antirachitic vitamin.

The good old bossy cow, who has served man so faithfully for uncounted generations, has been converted into a medical laboratory by feeding her irradiated yeast as a part of her daily diet. This yeast has been bathed in ultra violet rays, and when fed to the cow in proper proportions, it increases the vitamin D content of the milk about 30 times more than that found in ordinary milk. This milk is a cure for rickets. It also prevents the

O'Neill May Be Candidate For Congress

Mayor Michael C. O'Neill of Everett may be a candidate for Congress in the new Eighth district, of which this city is a part, at the next election. The new Eighth district is now strongly Democratic and a nomination is pretty sure to carry an election with it.

Flushed by the success of the Smith followers in the recent presidential primaries, supporters of that wing of the Democratic party believe that they will have little trouble in nominating the next candidate. Mayor O'Neill was one of the district candidates for the Democratic convention and his ticket mate is said not to be in a receptive mood for further political honors.

As a result a large delegation of Somerville Democrats are reported to have waited upon Mayor O'Neill to see if he would make an amiable support from Somerville. No announcement of his attitude has yet been forthcoming from Everett's mayor.

Nearest The Heart

by Elyse Joy

(Miss Joy will answer all communications sent to her care of this paper. For personal service kindly enclose self-addressed envelope).

Dear Miss Joy:

I'm a victim of a very dull stupid personality. I never quite realized this before but lately it has been very pronounced. You see, I'm chumming around with a girl who is very much more intelligent than I ever could be. When we go out together she always attracts all of the attention and I have to take a back seat.

I don't misunderstand me and think me jealous. On the contrary, I'm very proud to have her for a friend and know that she is a good influence. But here is my problem: I don't know whether to change my personality or not to suit hers. She is witty and clever. I'm not. I enjoy fun but I can't make fun. Now, do you think, Miss Joy, that I could successfully change about and make people like me, as well as she does? It is interesting to know that I am even better looking than she, and dress better, but her personality is magnetic and she always takes the spotlight from me when we are together.

Please tell me what to do. I'm so drab. I'm nearly beside myself.

No, emphatically no—do not change your personality one iota but improve upon it, just as much as you possibly can. Strip it right down to the ground and get at the foundation of it, and then start building.

So many people with colorless personalities, mate up with brilliant, sparkling characters and then after they have been in their company for a short while, start using their phrases, mimicking their laugh and copying their walk, style and even likes and dislikes.

Once in a moon's age are they successful in improving themselves, while the rest of the time, they fail horribly in this hopeless task. Had they recognized the worthwhile features of the personality they liked, and then endeavor to understand their own makeup and improve and improve on them accordingly, it would have no doubt been a successful operation, but simply donning a robe of humor, whether it was becoming or not to them, on the grounds that it was a natural one to their friend, spelt disaster in capital letters, even before they had started the task.

Now in your case, you say you are drab and lifeless. Well and good, the main part of your battle is over. You recognize your weaknesses and want to improve upon them. Don't copy someone else in their work. Be original. Develop the good in your make up and add what trills you may want to but don't steal someone else's thunder in so doing.

Nothing is quite as distasteful as the person whom you meet, wearing some one else's clothes, under the pretense of originating them, themselves. So is it with personalities. Don't do it—but improve upon your own style and you'll come out of the fray, gloriously victorious.

Individuality is always the keynote to a striking personality. It doesn't mean that we all have to be brilliant, scintillating and witty to be clever but it does mean that we have to be different, original and intelligent if we are to be successful in this Personality work.

Your best, is to cultivate outside interests, enjoy a hobby and study up on the art of conversing. Be a good listener, laugh along with the rest of the world and you'll just marvel at your sudden spurt to popularity.

Dear Miss Joy:

I have been married since July and since that time my folks have only asked my husband to pay seven dollars for board and room and they ask nothing for me. They are doing this that he might get ahead and pay up some of his bills a little at a time. Instead of that he takes all of his money and buys cigarettes and liquor. Days he doesn't work. Instead of looking for a job he goes and gets drunk. Could you help me make him honest and correct these faults? I have talked and talked but it doesn't do any good.

Mrs. N.

I'm afraid any advice I might give you Mrs. N. would go for naught. If you love your husband,

Lawrence, leader of the 50,000 to 100,000 group, Everett, the first in the 25,000 to 50,000 division. Northampton, the new leader of the 10,000 to 25,000 class, and Achushnet, still heading the under 10,000 division, all still have clean slates and have gone three months without a fatality.

The standings of the 437 cities and towns of the country which are competing in the nation-wide contest for the title of "America's safest city in their particular population group are determined by the lowest fatality rate per 100,000 population, and in case of a tie, the city with the largest population is given preference.

The actual fatality rate constitutes only about one-half of the requirements in the contest and a perfect score in this phase of the competition will bring 50 points. The remaining 60 points which makes up the total of 110 which constitutes a perfect score are of higher safety such as engineering accomplishments, safety educational programs, law enforcement, traffic control and regulation, and the like. The board of judges is to be headed by Miller McClintock, director of the Albert Russel Erskine Bureau of street traffic research at Harvard.

Bay State Cities Still In Lead In Safety Contest

Three of the six Massachusetts cities which were leading their respective divisions in the national safety contest during the first two months of the year were jostled out of their honor positions during the month of March, but one more Bay State community moved up to a first place during the month, leaving four Massachusetts cities still on top of their respective groups for the first quarter of the year: the Governor's committee on street and highway safety reported.

Boston, Lowell and Norwood were toppled from the lead in their respective divisions, according to the revised standing forwarded to the Governor's committee by the National Safety Council, sponsor of the contest, while Northampton became the new leader in group number 6.

Lawrence, Everett and the town of Acushnet continued to lead their respective divisions, all having weathered the first three months of the year without a fatality, and together with Northampton gives Massachusetts a lead in four of the seven divisions into which the competing cities are divided according to population size.

Toronto, Ontario, was responsible for shoving Boston out of the lead in the division made up of cities of 500,000 population and over. The Canadian city had a three-months death rate of only 6.9 per 100,000 population, compared to Boston's 14.2. Boston is now running second with New York a close third at 14.5 and Milwaukee fourth with 16.0.

In the group made up of cities of 100,000 to 250,000 population, one automobile fatality in March tumbled Lowell out of the lead and into fifth place with a death rate of 40. In January and February, Lowell had been the only city in the country of more than 100,000 population to go through the first two months of the year without a death, and its sudden fall by such a comparatively small item of one death only serves to illustrate the closeness of the contest.

Lawrence, leader of the 50,000 to 100,000 group, Everett, the first in the 25,000 to 50,000 division. Northampton, the new leader of the 10,000 to 25,000 class, and Achushnet, still heading the under 10,000 division, all still have clean slates and have gone three months without a fatality.

SPORT REALM

The Medford High boys who were fortunate enough to make the trip to the University of Pennsylvania Relay Carnival, held last Friday and Saturday, certainly made the most of their short stay in Philadelphia. The group arrived in the City of Brotherly Love about 7 o'clock Thursday night and after a short walk about the city retired early.

Friday morning the group, headed by Coach Pidgeon, spent no time in visiting the historic spots of the city. They viewed the various historical collections on exhibition at Independence Hall in Independence Square. They saw the Liberty Bell, which is now on display at the entrance to Independence Hall, mounted in mahogany on a marble base.

The Medford delegation then went to the plant of the Curtis Publishing Company, publishers of "The Saturday Evening Post", just a block from Independence Hall. A guide is always in attendance at the Curtis plant to show visitors about. As the boys went from one department another the guide explained the numerous details incident to the publishing and printing of a large weekly magazine. The plant also prints, publishes and distributes "The Woman's Home Companion" and "The Country Gentleman."

One of the most interesting features of the trip through the Curtis plant was the group of paintings by Maxfield Parrish, noted New York artist, whose work has appeared on the cover of the Post many times. In the ladies' dining room of the Curtis plant Mr. Parrish has on exhibition a collection of fourteen paintings which took more than five years to complete.

The boys later visited a number of the buildings of the University of Pennsylvania and took a trip over the bridge crossing the Delaware River to Camden, N. J.

The track meet between Medford and Brockton, which was originally scheduled to take place Friday of this week at Brockton, has been advanced to Thursday. This change has been made in order not to conflict with the Pop Concert to be held in the Medford High gym Friday night. Coach Pidgeon of the track team states he has a fine program lined up for the affair and all indications point to a gala event. This will be something new in High School socials in this city. The entire proceeds will be donated to the Medford High School A. A. to assist in the maintenance of the sports programs.

Any baseball teams, or any other sports, desiring representation in the sports columns of the Mercury will please send or bring their material to the office of the Mercury promptly after completion of the event. If properly marked for the Sports Department every effort will be made to see that no sports activity is overlooked. All sports may be left at the outside office of the Mercury, pushed through the mail slot in the door of the business office on Forest street, just at the entrance to the Mercury Arcade.

The St. Raphael Cubs are looking for games with teams averaging 14 years of age. They are desirous of playing games at Playstead Park, West Medford, on Saturday morning if possible. Any team interested may get in touch with Joseph Crowley, 158 Arlington street, West Medford. Telephone Arlington 6452-J.

George J. Hackett, Philip G. Desmond, Joseph J. Fitzpatrick, members of the ancient and honorable society of "Divot Disturbers" are out on the links when the opportunity presents itself, protecting their game.

No scores are at hand as yet.

Medford Cubs Lick St. James

The Medford Cubs won a fast baseball game from St. James' Cubs at Morrison Park yesterday afternoon to the score of 16 to 12.

The St. James boys started in rugged fashion when they wallowed across five runs but after the first frame McDonald, Medford's moundman, steadied down while his team scored two runs in the second, two in the third and four in the fourth.

The St. James boys staged a batting spree in the fifth and sixth innings when they knocked across three in each frame but this was not enough to overcome the lead the Medford Cubs had piled up.

MEDFORD THEATRE

Clark Gable assisting Marton Davies is just the news some movie fans have been longing for, as co-stars they will appear in "Polly of the Circus", the feature attraction of the double bill which will be shown at the Medford Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It is a dramatic story of an attractive but "hard-boiled" circus performer who falls in love with a young minister.

Edna May Oliver shares the honors of the bill in "Ladies of the Jury" and there is a lot of fun from the first bang of the gavel to open court and the gates of laughter.

The acting of Isabelle Drew and John Brinnall Jr., and the brilliant performance of Tom Morse and Fred Mullen, along with the rest of the cast, helped to make the play a success. The audience numbered about 100 and the department is hoping for a larger turnout tonight. Candy was sold between the acts and Jack McCord played the harp, accompanied by Eleanor Keene at the piano. ## THE FOUNDATION OF BUSINESS CREDIT

The question was recently asked a number of business men, "What is stock fire insurance?" Their answers indicated that they thought it was insurance on cattle, live stock, or stocks of goods, which shows that it is the substance of a question, rather than the question itself, that counts. Had the same men been asked, "What is a stock fire insurance company?" the majority would have given the correct answer and said that 99 per cent of their property was insured in that type of company.

The general term "stock fire insurance" in its broad sense refers to all policies issued by fire insurance companies organized with a fixed capital to write policies on acceptable risks for a definitely stated premium, guaranteeing indemnity not to exceed a specified amount without further assessment or liability against the insured.

The credit structure of the business world has been built around such insurance. Without its universal and democratic application to all alike for a pre-determined price—no more, no less—modern business could not be conducted on a credit basis.

Stock fire insurance is in contrast to what might be termed self-insurance such as is carried by one or more persons or industries on a limited amount of property in a limited area with indefinite premium liability assumed by participants.

While this substitute for stock company insurance may answer in a limited field it does not and cannot give the universal coverage, service, spread of risk, security and exact cost which is the foundation upon which stock fire insurance operates.

LABOR AND ROAD BUILDING

A recently completed study of the New Jersey Contractors' Association shows that 76 cents out of every dollar paid for road work goes to labor. Thirty-four cents is paid to labor directly on the project and 42 cents indirectly through the transportation and manufacture of supplies and equipment.

The experience of other states has been similar, which explains the efforts being made to expedite road building during the time of severe unemployment. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that more of the road dollar goes to labor via a comparatively inexpensive highway—of the "road-mix" type—than in the case of main highways. Furthermore, the road dollar goes much further from the standpoint of the community, inasmuch as the cost of the former type is but 10 or 20 per cent of that of the latter.

The most fertile field for the road builder lies in rural localities. For a very small cost per mile, first-class, all-weather roads can be built connecting farms and towns with existing main highways—and those secondary roads carry, figuratively speaking, a constant stream of dollars to the towns and farms reached. They bring tourists off the beaten path, stimulate small town business, make it possible for the farmer to take his goods to market or shipping points at the most advantageous time. The nation's secondary roads are the nation's "food" roads—and that word is a good measure of their importance.

DEMAND GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY NOW

The increasing cost of government is one of the highest barriers in the path of industrial expansion and a return to normal conditions.

In 1913 total taxes were $2,187,000,000. In 1923 they were $7,234,000,000. In 1929 they were $10,251,000,000. The percentage of national income garnered by the tax collector for these years was 6.4 per cent, 10.1 per cent and 14.4 per cent, respectively. During this period the amount of tax per capita increased from $22.66 to $83.21. A family of five would thus pay $416.05 yearly on the 1930 basis.

It is customary to blame these increased costs on the extraordinary expenses made necessary by the war. But that applies only in the case of the Federal government, and in recent years local and state governments have been the worst tax-boasting offenders by far. This is likewise true in the case of the total public debt which increased from $4,200,000,000 in 1913, to $30,200,000,000 in 1922. In 1928, while the national debt had been decreased $5,400,000,000 in six years, due to Federal economies, the state and local debt had increased $5,400,000,000.

The tax problem extends, with steadily increasing importance, through every branch of government. The orgy of spending which followed the war—and was largely the result of the inflation of 1926-29—has come full circle at last. We are no longer able to increase taxation and public debt without seriously imperiling the future of the country. Investors are frightened, and money is hoarded. Businesses come to a standstill and more and more men are thrown out of work. Nothing could do more to start the country on the upgrade than decisive governmental economy—not next week or next year, but now.

Daddy Sunshine
Club Rules

1. Be kind and helpful to others.
2. Look both ways when crossing streets.
3. Always be kind to dumb animals.
4. Write a letter to Daddy Sunshine, or have Mother or Dad write it for you, every now and then.
5. Try to bring a "Ray of Sunshine" into the lives of your parents and others every day of the week and every week of the year.

These rules are not very difficult for good girls and boys to keep. Most of them are kept by them anyway.

Mail your letters and stories to Daddy Sunshine, in care of this paper. He will answer them in the Daddy Sunshine Column.

Write on but one side of the paper, and place your name and address on the letter after your name. Give the day, month and year of your birth.

To join the club all you have to do is promise to keep the rules—and keep them.

"Prophylactic"

Now children why do you suppose "This word comes to your view? Perhaps in rhyme and not in prose. It might appeal to you.

And therefore it is our intent To show here if you please Its meaning—which is to prevent Or guard against disease.

So prophylactic briefly states The safer kind of wealth And its the thought that animates Your local board of health.

The movie words, the catchy phrase, Sometimes current slang, Are used a lot these modern days— "Oh yeah! bozo!" and "gang."

A little change—that's why we write This prophylactic rhyme: To add perchance a ray of light To Daddy Sunshine's line.

—J. J. Delaney

Governor Recommends
Observing Mother's Day

Governor Ely, in a statement issued yesterday, recommending an appropriate observance of Mother's Day, said: "It will be eminently fitting in observing this day to devote ourselves as far as possible to the alleviation of distress caused by unemployment."

The Governor's statement is as follows: "Through an act of the Congress of the United States, the second Sunday in May is designated as Mother's Day. The observance this year, 1932, therefore, will be on May 8. It is customary to display our flags on that day, and to wear a flower emblematic of that purity of life and of spirit, so indicative of the mothers of the Nation. To my mind it will be eminently fitting in observing this day to devote ourselves as far as possible to the practical alleviation of distress caused by unemployment."

The annual observance of Mother's Day gives us an unusual opportunity to give national emphasis to motherhood, which throughout the ages has been recognized as the greatest single force in the advancement of civilization. The most beautiful word in all the languages of men is "mother." Mother and home are synonymous of the love and devotion that center in the family circle. On that day, Sunday, May 8, may we all turn our thoughts to the one who makes home a place of joyous privilege and blessed joyous.

"As Governor of the Commonwealth, I am very glad to recom-

State Receives
Good Share of
Ins. Premiums

Payments made to Massachusetts policy-holders and their beneficiaries by the New York Life Insurance Company in 1931 and investments of the Company in the state during the year, amounted to $4,590,752 in excess of the total of premiums collected. It was reported today.

During 1931 the New York Life collected $8,783,098 in premiums in Massachusetts. At the same time it paid to resident policy-holders and their beneficiaries in death losses, maturing endowments, dividends, etc., $7,862,326 and invested in the state in mortgage loans or bonds and loaned to policy-holders a total of $5,511,524.

At the end of 1931 the total investment of the Company in Massachusetts amounted to $35,635,187. This amount is exclusive of a portion of the investments of over $44,000,000 in the securities of interstate industries whose operations are so widely distributed that they cannot be allocated by states. If such an allocation were possible, the Company states, the amount invested during the year and the total of investments in Massachusetts would be shown to be considerably larger.

New insurance issued by the New York Life in Massachusetts in 1931 amounted to $19,379,043, bringing the total insurance in force of the Company in the State on December 31st, 1931 to $237,533,058.

"The Chocolate
Soldier" In Hub

What promises to be the gayest musical event of the season is the forthcoming appearance of Vivienne Segal and Charles Purcell in their own splendid revival of "The Chocolate Soldier" at the Wilbur Theatre Monday evening, May 9.

At the close of its New York run, the show was taken over by Vivienne Segal and Charles Purcell who were prompted by a mixture of motives. For one thing, they believed they could make money from a tour with the piece. But blended into this feeling was their desire to maintain employment for the other members of their company.

When "The Chocolate Soldier" sweeps into your ears next week it will represent not only an excellent but also a earnest endeavor on the part of the principals, Miss Segal and Mr. Purcell, to do their little toward curtailing the bread lines.

In addition to New York, the present revival of "The Chocolate Soldier" has played profitable engagements in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Washington, Philadelphia and other cities, and has everywhere been greeted enthusiastically.

Miss Segal and Mr. Purcell have surrounded themselves with an excellent cast including Allan Rogers, John Dunmore, Sarah Edwards, Marjorie Palmer, Edmond Mulebach, Theo Van Tassel, and a chorus of picked voices.

The two young stars are well liked in New England, the former brought appearances in such notable attractions as "Castles in the Air," the original New York company of "The Desert Song," and recently in "The Three Musketeers"; and the latter with "Mytime," "Oh, Phoebe," "It's the Deal," and other shows. Matinee Wednesday and Saturday are especially convenient for out of town patrons on account of their popular prices.

Boston Dispensary
Provides Treatment
On Basis of Cost

One often hears the theory that only the poor and the sick receive adequate medical treatment. This is true in a large measure, but in recent years cities have developed which make it possible for that large part of the population in between the poor and the well-to-do to secure medical care at a cost proportionate to their income.

Dr. Holmes' experiments were conducted along the lines of this idea by Dr. Harry Steinhilber, professor of bio-chemistry at the University of Wisconsin, and discovery of the isolated fat principle. In Dr. Holmes' tests of blood's special vitamin D he found that it contained not less than 160 units of vitamin D per quart.

The irradiated yeast feeding experiments were started several months ago with three groups of 10 cows each at the Cherry Hill Certified Milk Farm. The milk from these cows was studied in tests on Albino rats at Dr. Holmes' laboratory. These animals were maintained on a special food known as the Steinhilber ration, which is a ration totally lacking in vitamin D and produces rickets in creatures to which it is fed. The animals thus fed showed enlarged joints, and the bones in the legs became so soft they could barely walk. Then for a period of eight days they were fed on the special vitamin milk, and when these animals were finally killed an examination of the leg-bones showed healing rickets, which indicated that the milk contains the desired quantity of this vitamin. Vitamin D, according to Dr. Holmes, makes possible the absorbing of calcium and phosphorus by the bones and the teeth in amounts necessary to their growth and maintenance in a healthy condition. It is claimed that the special vitamin milk also has a beneficial effect upon nursing mothers, tending to keep their teeth sound.

The dispensary is, of course, still adhering to its policy of not admitting patients to the evening clinics who can afford to pay the private practitioner's office fees. But many people whose wages have been greatly reduced during the past year are, of course, now eligible to come to the evening clinics. Applicants for admission are interviewed by an admitting officer, who tries to form a complete picture of the patient and his home environment and to secure a correct statement of his occupational and financial conditions—because eligibility to the evening pay clinic is determined by a consideration of all these factors.

ARLINGTON TRADE SHOW

everyone in the small community. The Trade Show affords the merchants an excellent opportunity to impress their name and merchandise on the minds of the out of town stores. Personal contact, that is vital force in successful selling, is one of the many advantages guaranteed the merchants in the Trade Show. This means that many of the townspeople will, for the first time, make the acquaintance of many of our local merchants and their products and realize that their values compare favorably with those of the larger stores.

Competition is today relentless. Driving men to seek the solution of their selling problems in effective advertising. Recent economic surveys have shown that those organizations that increased, rather than decreased, their advertising expenditures during the past year suffered the smallest decline in volume of sales.

The smallest merchant must realize the fullest extent of his resources, meet the advertising pressure of his competitors by the same methods—advertising. What better way exists today than a well organized and skillfully directed Trade Show? Hundreds of people will gather to view the displays and exhibits. Problems of mutual concern will be discussed in an atmosphere of friendliness and the visitors from the many sections of the town will mingle freely, and from this a better understanding of the economic problems of the community. Through a realization of their mutual dependability and townspeople can promote the interests of the community and incidentally bring to the town beneficial publicity. The surrounding communities will be made aware of the progressive nature of Arlington and will seek to emulate her. The advantages which will accrue to Arlington cannot be measured immediately, for the influence of the Trade Show extends far into the future.

and hence cannot be adequately measured. But there can be no doubt that Arlington's prestige will be strengthened through the Trade Show and that the Chamber of Commerce will add to its growing list of achievements which have rendered it an invaluable civic organization.

Hotel de France & Chateau
229-241 Rue St. Honoré
(Place Vendôme)
Paris, April 17th, 1932.

To the Selection of the Town of Arlington.

Dear Sirs:—We wish to present to the Town in memory of Josephine Robbins Wallace, the clock recently placed in the Hearing Room of the Town Hall.

Mrs. Wallace was daughter of Amos Robbins and wife of William J. Wallace, for many years a distinguished judge of a Federal Court in New York. Taking a lively interest in the gift to the Town of his brother-in-law, Winfield Robbins, Judge Wallace bequeathed to us as trustees, a sum of money to be used at our discretion for the improvement and embellishment of the Amos Robbins Memorial Town Hall and for the purchase of a clock to be placed in the Hearing Room of the Town Hall.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) Ida E. Robbins
Calma Robbins

The board then voted to formally accept the gift and extend the thanks of the community to the donors of the new clock.

Following a hearing on the petition of Thomas D. Lonergan for a public filling station at the corner of River street and the Mystic Valley parkway, the board voted to deny the petition. The vote which was unanimous, was explained as being brought about by the fact that traffic conditions at this point would not warrant a filling station here. Several motor vehicle residents have taken place at this intersection it was pointed out.

A communication from the board of health in Cambridge relative to their denial of a petition for a slaughter house in North Cambridge was read at the meeting of the Arlington board last Monday evening. The Arlington board, at its meeting last Monday evening, received a copy of the bill, signed by Governor Ely, authorizing the board of selection to act as a board of public works of the townspeople with to make this change in government.

The bill if accepted by the town people at a special meeting to be called in the future, will abolish the present board of five selectmen and provide for a board of five selectmen and three members of the public works board. This will automatically eliminate one man and abolish the necessity of joint-board meetings as is the rule now.

The bill was passed by the Senate on April 22, and signed by the Governor on the same day. A copy was sent to the local board by Representative Nelson B. Crosby. A special town meeting will now be called by the Arlington board of selection and a majority vote will be necessary to put the change through. If approved by the voters, the change will go into effect with the next annual town meeting in the spring of 1933.

At the meeting of the board last Monday evening, a letter, dispatched from Paris, relative to the presentation of the new clock recently placed in the Robbins Memorial Town hall, was read. The letter which formally makes the presentation in memory of Josephine Robbins Wallace, follows:

Hotel de France & Chateau
229-241 Rue St. Honoré
(Place Vendôme)
Paris, April 17th, 1932.

To the Selection of the Town of Arlington.

Dear Sirs:—We wish to present to the Town in memory of Josephine Robbins Wallace, the clock recently placed in the Hearing Room of the Town Hall.

Mrs. Wallace was daughter of Amos Robbins and wife of William J. Wallace, for many years a distinguished judge of a Federal Court in New York. Taking a lively interest in the gift to the Town of his brother-in-law, Winfield Robbins, Judge Wallace bequeathed to us as trustees, a sum of money to be used at our discretion for the improvement and embellishment of the Amos Robbins Memorial Town Hall and for the purchase of a clock to be placed in the Hearing Room of the Town Hall.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) Ida E. Robbins
Calma Robbins

The board then voted to formally accept the gift and extend the thanks of the community to the donors of the new clock.

Following a hearing on the petition of Thomas D. Lonergan for a public filling station at the corner of River street and the Mystic Valley parkway, the board voted to deny the petition. The vote which was unanimous, was explained as being brought about by the fact that traffic conditions at this point would not warrant a filling station here. Several motor vehicle residents have taken place at this intersection it was pointed out.

A communication from the board of health in Cambridge relative to their denial of a petition for a slaughter house in North Cambridge was read at the meeting of the Arlington board last Monday evening. The local board had requested the board of health in the nearby city not to grant this petition on the grounds that a slaughter house in North Cambridge would create disfavor among the people living in East Arlington.
